Vol. XXI. No. 19

Band Wins First Place At School Patrol Assembly

The M. W. C. Band won first place in the band contest of the International School Patrol Assembly which was held in Washington on May 14. The Assembly was sponsored by the American Automobile Association.

Each of the bands marching in the parade represented a state. The M. W. C. Band, first prize winner in the class III division of college and civic bands, represented Ohio.

The first place honor carried with it a $100 prize.

May 21 Set For Senior Dance

The Senior dance for this year's graduating class will be given May 21 from 9 to 12 on the roof garden of George Washington Hall. Music is to be furnished by Jess Pine and his orchestra. Decorations will be in the Class Colors, maroon and white, and the usual card dance will be featured.

Also a tea dance on the roof garden of the indoor swimming pool will be the same afternoon from 3:30 to 5:00 P. M.

Mrs. Russell Will Help Job Seekers

Seniors who are planning to work next year and have not yet obtained jobs are requested to talk to Mrs. Russell about their interests before they leave. Mrs. Russell explained that she is willing to help them in any way she can.

Honor Society Taps New Members

New members of Cap and Gown were given a surprise breakfast by the old members at the Stratford Hotel on Tuesday morning, May 3. The sponsors, Mrs. Russell, Miss Stevenson, Dr. Voelkel, and Mrs. Stewart, and Sara Kay Jordan, winner of the Sophomore award were also present.

Ten Members Tapped

The ten new members were tapped at the chapel program on April 29. Mary Cottingham, a chemistry major, and president of YWCA is from Bennettsville, South Carolina. Also from South Carolina is Marceline Weatherly, a music major and president of next year's senior class. Maude Levey and Connie Metzger both hail from Richmond, Virginia. Maude is an English major and editor of the Bulletin, and Connie, a chemistry major, is president of the Newman Club and vice-president of Alpha Phi Sigma. Betty Jean Lyle, president of S. G. A., is a music major and from Goshen, Virginia. Bedford, Virginia, claims Nancy Lee Parks who is an English major and house president of Ball. Also presiding over Tri-Unit will be Sarah Miles, house president of Custis, and Jean Sprower, house president of Madison. "Smiles" is a Dramatic Arts and Speech major and from Martinsburg, West Virginia. Jean, who is from Freeport, New York, is an English major. Vice-president of S. G. A. is Patti Head who is an English major and from Falls Church, Virginia. Amelia, Virginia is Mary Lee Keener's home. She is a Business Administration major and Secretary of S. G. A.

Knapp Elected Battlefield Editor

Twenty-one-year-old Leona Knapp from Wilmington, Delaware, has been elected editor of the 1949-50 Battlefield. She is a junior and has served as Literary Editor on the yearbook.

Leona says, "We have some new plans for the Battlefield which we hope will interest the students, not as a part of their class or any organization but as a member of M. W. C."

The Battlefield Business Manager for 1949-50 is "Bunny" Bunnell from Richmond. She is a sophomore and has worked as Lay-out Editor and on the business staff.

Bunny says that she hopes to enlarge her staff and that she is especially interested in getting more lower classmen to work with the Battlefield and that the staff plans to put on a larger and different Subscription Campaign.

Ward Asks Aid For Epaulet

Ann Ward, Editor of the Epaulet for next year, wants the magazine to be "A reflection of the student body for the students themselves."

Ann needs the help of the student body to have better cartoons and photography. She hopes to employ the talent at Mary Washington in writing original poetry, short stories, jokes and book reviews. Several writing contests and exchanges with 35 other school magazines are also on the agenda. Ann, from Norfolk, Va., is now a Junior. She is majoring in Psychology and taking advanced courses in English. In high school she was editor of her school paper, the Maury News, and this year she has worked on the Epaulet as literary editor.

The Epaulet is open for any suggestions or writing, which should be placed in the Epaulet Box outside of Dr. Shankle's and Dr. Whidden's office on the second floor in Chandler Hall.

Commencement Speaker Will Be Nancy McClelland

The Commencement speaker for this year's graduation class will be Nancy McClelland. Miss McClelland is president of the Nancy McClelland firm in New York City. She received her A. B. degree from Vassar College where she was a member of the Phi Kappa Honorary Fraternity. In France Miss McClelland was a member of the Chevalier Legion of Honor, and in England a fellow of the Royal Society of Arts. Also she is a fellow of the American Institute of Decorators and of the Architectural League in New York. From the latter league Miss McClelland received the Michael Friedson Award.

Charles J. Smith, president of Roanoke College, will be the guest speaker at the Baccalaureate service. Dr. Smith has received an A. B. and D. D. degree from Roanoke College, an M. A. degree from Princeton University, and an LL.D. degree from Gettysburg College.

Seniors Seek Honor Degrees

Margaret Hines and Barbara Blackburn are candidates for degrees with honors this spring.

Margaret is working for honors in her major, biology. She has made a survey of various groups of insects to determine the presence or the absence of neurosecretory cells in the adults. Her work has caused her to be offered two fellowships, one at Northwestern University and the other at Smith College.

Barbara is majoring in music and is writing her thesis on investigations which she has made into the relationships between certain Bach cantatas and choral preludes bearing the same name. The field has not been explored before. Investigations indicate that it might be reasonably asserted that the choral preludes were written at the same time as the cantatas were sung.

To be a candidate for a degree with honors a student must have an average of B+ in her major and an average of B in her other subjects.

MWC Girls Chosen for Part In Cast Of 'Common Glory'

CONNIE CONLEY

Framar Set For Spanish House

Framar, formerly the president's home on the campus at Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia will become a Spanish House next year when 32 young women, who have pledged themselves to speak only in Spanish among themselves and with their hostess while in the house or on its grounds, take up residence there in September.

A waiting list has been formed for those who cannot be accommodated at this time. Miss Mary Ellen Stephenson of Richmond, a member of the faculty is the hostess. She lived in a Spanish House while working for her master's degree in this language at Middlebury College. Speakers from Washington will address the students from time to time and series of Sunday night snack parties and picnics have been planned.

Good Luck
On Exams!

Connie Conley, an advanced drama student from Pitman, N. J. has been selected by Director John Baird to play the romantic lead in "The Common Glory", Paul Green's dramatic story of revolutionary days.

Three other Mary Washington girls won parts in the cast. Anne Buckles from Kingsport, Tenn. was selected for a part and Betty Shaffer from Wilmington, Delaware, Sally Holroyd from Bridgeport, Conn. will participate in the dancing. All of these roles are tentative so changes can be made after rehearsals begin if necessary.

Connie Portrays Southern Belle
Connie was selected to play the part of Eileen Gorden, a typical Southern mistress. Her father is an Army officer. Because her mother died when she was young, Eileen was given the care of the mansion.

Since she has been in college, Connie has played mainly comedy parts. Connie was surprised to get the part of a romantic Southern "Belle" because Connie is a "Yankee".

The nearest thing to this part that Connie has ever done was in high school where she played Kathleen in "Smiling Thru". While at MWC she has had leading roles in "A Foolish Notion", "A Midsummer Night's Dream", "The Late Mr. Early", and others.

Connie has no definite plans after graduation except that she would like to go into professional comedy. She hopes to study some dance in Williamsburg this summer.

Connie believes her success in getting the part came from "speaking tenderly at the top of her lungs" which she had to do when trying for the part.

The Mary Washington girls were among approximately one hundred and fifty who were selected to attend the final auditions held this week at the Matoka Lake Amphitheatre in Williamsburg where the "Common Glory" will be given.

Twenty seven were selected from this group for speaking parts and Miss Conley and Miss Buckles have the honor of being among six women named.

Fourth Year of Production
The play has been given for three years but the 1949 drama will be as much of a novelty to the veterans as to the new-comers since it has not only been almost entirely re-written and several new scenes injected but also the drama

Pictures Place In Terminal

Pictures of George Washington Hall and E. Trinkle library will be placed in the Greyhound Bus Terminal in the near future. The pictures are 25 inches by 40 inches and are taken by the Colonial Studios, who also took the ones used in the R. F. & P. diner.

Frosh and Sophs Give Parties For "Sisters"

The freshman and sophomore classes under the direction of their retiring presidents, Pat Riley and Sarah Kay Jordan, will entertain their sister classes, the juniors and seniors, at coke parties this week.

The sophomore-sponsored party was held May 16 at 7:15 behind Seobeck Hall. The Juniors will be honored by the freshman class today, May 17, in the same place at 6:30 P. M.

L. to R.—Miles, Cottingham, Head, Lyle, Weatherly, Parks, Levey, Metzger. Absent: Keener and Sprower.

HERITAGE

To have large ideals and to start great things is good but to carry those ideals through the long, bitter details is better. That is what the 1949-50 Bullet staff has undertaken to do. This does not mean that the 1948-49 staff started great things; they too only dabbled in drab business but their ideals are great and they have left them in the capable hands of their successors, confident that those ideals will be well handled.

There is the problem of the 100 per cent pledge and the 30 per cent failure to carry it out, plus the $1 subscription rate and the free copies of the Bullet for the faculty. All this has been a decided drain on the finances of a former six, now eight and ten page weekly. Next year the staff will keep up the page-picture-news increase and continue to hope for 100 per cent student cooperation.

In truth, all these fade into insignificance beside the fact that Mary Washington College is on the upswing to bigger and better things and that the Bullet, rather than coasting along in the wake, is going to be pulling its own weight with the rest of the crew. Subscriptions, pictures, fame and—we hope—student interest doubled this year. It can again, and with Miss Levey and her editors at the helm—it will. Carry on!

—A.D.D.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Fredericksburg's "Publishers Row" along William Street is a much handsomer place than it used to be. The Free Lance-Star recently expanded its quarters into an adjoining building and the Colonial Press plant has been enlarged and renovated and both establishments are much more attractive than they formerly were. Congratulations, Mr. Rowe and Mr. Beales!

The Bullet staff is much indebted to the Free Lance-Star and its staff for their constant kindness and neighborliness. When we need a special cut or picture, we borrow it from the Free Lance; when we need some technical advice, someone at the F. L. S. is always ready to give it to us cheerfully and helpfully. It gives us a lot of pleasure to see such a good friend move into a nice new home.

We seriously doubt whether we could get out a Bullet at all were it not for the long-continued patience and helpfulness of Mr. Reynolds, Mr. Poindexter and all the other members of the Colonial Press staff. We often wonder how they can be so good-natured when we slip up, unintentionally and regretfully of course, and complicate their lives with late copy, misplaced ads, and inept makeup. Incidentally, the Bullet has received many a pat on the back for the high quality of its presswork.

The Bullet joins the whole of Mary Washington College in extending good wishes to both publishing firms. May the linotypes continue to click and the presses rumble for many a long year at both the Free Lance-Star and the Colonial Press!

We'll be back in the fall eager to reoccupy our own small place on Publishers Row.

"Do Not Disturb" Signs Provoke Funny Stories

The manufacturers of "Lady Berkleigh" pajamas have received interesting and humorous anecdotes resulting from their "Do Not Disturb" signs which they distributed in numerous colleges recently. The company wishes to thank you, through the Bullet, for helping them to put over a experiment in modern merchandising methods.

Duggan Receives Prize For Wood-Engraving

Miss Dorothy Duggan, head of the art department at Mary Washington College has been notified by the National Association of Women Artists that her wood-engraving "Evening" now on exhibition in the galleries of the National Academy of Design in New York City has received a cash prize. In the same exhibition is her print entitled "City Park Corner." Both subjects deal with scenes in Fredericksburg.

Letter to the Editor

26 April 1949

Dear Editor:

Although now anticipating graduation from the University of Hawaii, as a past three-year member of the M. W. C. student body, I wish to use the Bullet as an intermediary to extend congratulations and maika pomaikai (good luck) to the members of the 1949 graduating class.

Thanking you, I remain,

Sincerely,

Shirley-Lou Beechwood.

Festival Presented In Honor of Goethe

Under the direction of Dr. Susanne Englemann, professor of German, the Deutsche Studienkreis and the German classes of Mary Washington College presented a Goethe Memorial Festival on Wednesday, May 11, at 7:30 P. M. in Monroe Auditorium. The program was given in honor of the 200th anniversary of the birthday of the great poet, Johann Wolfgang Goethe.

The words of all songs and poems in the program were written by Goethe. The festival opened with the singing of three songs by the choir of the German Beginner Classes, with music by Schubert.

Dr. Susanne Englemann, faculty sponsor of the Deutsche Studienkreis, then gave an address on Goethe and World Literature. Dr. Englemann told many little known incidents in the life of Goethe and told of his belief that nations should know and understand each other.

Solos in German were sung by Betty Lou Miles, Martha Coleman, Nancy Trice, Miriam Tatom, and Frances Cheason.

A German Speech Choir recited several poems by Goethe.

Accompanists for the program were Betty Lou Miles and Elinor Platt.

Profs. To Teach

Dr. Michael Erdelyi, professor of Psychology at Mary Washington College, will teach Education Psychology and Applied Psychology for nurses at Eau Claire State Teachers College, Eau Claire, Wisconsin, this summer.

Dr. Myrick H. Sublette, assistant professor of political science, will teach Economics and Labor at the University of Virginia.

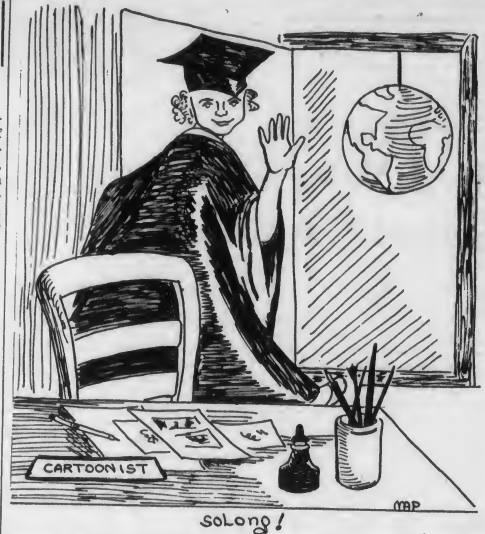

Dr. E. K. Dodd will teach a beginning course in General Psychology and an advanced course in Theories of Learning at the University of Virginia. Dr. A. Lindsay will teach History at the American University. Dr. K. F. Leidcker will teach Oriental Philosophy, Logic, and History of Western Philosophy at Highlands University, Las Vegas, New Mexico, this summer.

Speaker Stresses Non-Violence, Unity In Convo Address

Dr. Asirvatham told the M. W. C. student body that one of the best ways to prevent war is the practice of non-violence. The speaker addressed Convocation on Monday, May 9, in George Washington Auditorium.

In his talk on World Problems and International Questions, Dr. Asirvatham said, "We want to create a sense of world community in the youth of today."

"The world is fast becoming one world," he said, "but from the standpoint of human relations it is not one world."

In order to obtain the One World, One Destiny which he advocates, Dr. Asirvatham says that several impediments must be removed. These impediments are war and threat of war, false nationalism, continuance of imperialism.

Dr. Asirvatham said that he admires the political democracy in the United States but he does not admire the social democracy. "In your country," he said, "a man has no social problem if he is of the right complexion."

The world "cannot have peace without order, cannot have order without justice, cannot have justice without the machinery for justice, and cannot have the machinery for justice without people burning with the desire for justice," the speaker insisted.

Dr. Asirvatham does not believe that our capitalism would be the right form of government for Europe or Asia. These continents, he said, need a mixed economy.

Doctor Martin Addresses Principals

Dr. Charles K. Martin, Jr., professor of education at Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia, will address the Northern Virginia Principals Association in Warrenton on May 12. The subject of his talk is "Our School Building Problems." The dinner meeting will be held in the Warrenton High School at 6:30.

Dr. Martin is a member of the Fredericksburg City Council and chairman of its committee on education.

Professional to Play Role of Jefferson

has been entirely re-staged. The principal role in the drama, that of Thomas Jefferson, will be played by a Broadway professional. A professional narrator will also be hired. The remainder of the cast will be made up of dancers, singers, extras, and children and will number approximately 150.

Rehearsals for the play will begin June 6. Performances start July 1 and continue through September 4. Ticket prices are: reserved seats, $2.40; general admission $1 and children $.90. Fifty-five performances will be given during the 1949 season. These will be nightly except Monday.

The drama is produced by the Jamestown Corporation, non-stock and non-profit organization, and sponsored jointly by the Corporation and the Department of Conservation and Development.

Warfield Lists Future Plays

Jack Warfield, director of the Mary Washington College Theatre, states that three major productions will be given next year, 1949-50. Selection will be made from the following: "The Women," "The Heiress," "Doll's House," "Cradle Song," "Old Acquaintance," "Linden Tree," and "The Importance of Being Earnest." On behalf of the College Theatre Mr. Warfield wishes to thank its supporters for their generosity and cooperation during the past season.

Miss Sue Ellen Lane Awarded Scholarship

Miss Sue Ellen Lane of Fredericksburg, a graduate of Culpeper High School and a senior at Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia, has been awarded the LaVerne Noyes scholarship, a divisional scholarship in the Early Humanities, at the University of Chicago for next year. She plans to concentrate in the study of Greek.

Dear Mom . . .

I just bought some stamps at the Post Office, so I thought I'd put them to good use and write the letters which I owe just about everyone. I always wonder why the box is empty, but now I've come to the conclusion it's because I don't answer letters very often. I love to get mail, but it seems like such a task to sit down and answer a letter.

The week before last we all drew numbers for next year's rooms and then last week we signed up. The topic of conversation was first, "What number did you get?" and now it's "Where are you living next year?" The incoming Seniors and Juniors have taken the matter lightly, but then it was just routine for them. The incoming Sophomores, however, have a good many disappointed and discouraged girls in their group. The poor individuals with high numbers have to look forward to another year in beautiful Willard. I guess everyone can't get number one though.

Well the Mary Washington girls certainly believe in getting their share of Vitamin D. The tennis courts actually look like sardine cans when everyone stretches out, under crowded conditions, to get a glorious, golden tan. The sun is just as hot as it can be and sometimes it's like torture when the breeze vanishes. Of course, it's a little startling to see the effects. Usually it's the long desired tan, but then there are those who become covered with freckles or else the other type who turn lobster red.

Well, in between sun baths, we have been attending classes and the like. The most agonizing part is when you sit in class trying not to gaze out of the window and the ice cream man goes by in his truck jingling his bell. I really think a spring fever epidemic is well underway.

Not long ago we had a real nice

Ann Buckles
Elected Leader
Of MWC Players

Ann Buckles was elected president of M. W. C. Players for the coming year at a meeting on May 11 in Monroe Auditorium.

Other officers elected were: vice-president, Conni Froehler; secretary, Jackie Newell; treasurer, Ann Penney; publicity, Kay Showker.

The Players will hold their annual picnic Tuesday, May 17, at 5 P. M. at the cabin. Conni Froehler will be in charge of food. Audrey Watt will head the entertainment, which will be given by the senior class members of the club.

Master membership cards will be given to those girls who have completed the necessary hours of apprenticeship.

Convo. The University of Richmond Glee Club presented a wonderful program. From what I hear a certain group of boys serenaded one lucky dorm here and the girls just couldn't settle down for the rest of the night.

May Day weekend was a highlight on the Mary Washington Calendar. The May Day program Saturday was absolutely beautiful, and to top it off there was a movie and an informal dance that night. It was followed by Mother's Day on Sunday and, gee Mom, I really did miss being home with you. I hope you had a wonderful day, but it won't be long now before I'll be seeing you.

I didn't expect this week to be as eventful as last, but on Friday and Saturday nights the M. W. Players presented their last play of the season, "Foolish Notion." It was wonderful!

Two of the newly-formed Speech Clubs on campus sponsored chapel last week. The first part of the program was presented by the Spectre Circle and the latter half was under the direction of the Manners for Moderns Club which is stressing the importance of more school spirit. Their first open meeting was Wednesday at 4:00 and I certainly hope the students attended because the whole thing is a grand idea.

Well, I'm beginning to get writer's cramp and one toothpick has already fallen out of my eye, so I better close now before the hall monitor comes and turns the lights off. There is no such thing as beauty sleep at M. W. C., but then who has to be beautiful here.

Good night to you all,
Love,
Dotter . . .

Spanish Club Chooses

Home Economics Club
Elects New Officers

The annual installation program of the officers of the Home Economics Club was held on May 13. The incoming officers are as follows: President, Mary Margaret Ferrell; Vice-President, Jane Frazier; Secretary, Betty Jane Minnick; Treasurer, Mary Howard; and Historian, Jean Powell.

Honored at this program were the following out-going officers: President, Elva C. Tate; Vice-President, Sarah K. Hayter; Secretary, Ann Law; Treasurer, Maude Wood; and Historian, Jane Davis.

'Magic Eye' to Snap Seniors

Modern photography will play an important part in the forthcoming graduation of approximately 250 senior students at their May 30th exercises when, for the first time, each one will be individually photographed as she receives her diploma from Dr. Combs.

Using a new, automatic camera, operated by remote control and synchronized with Strobe speed-light, Arthur Clarke, a Richmond photographer, will put his 24 years of professional skill to work to provide a new photographic service to the college and the graduates.

Student records, which remain in the school file, will carry a small identification picture as a result of the new "Magic Eye" camera operation and students will be able to order copies in a 5x7 size.

Even though this is the first time a college graduating class will be individually photographed, the service was tried and proved on January 31st of this year when 162 students of John Marshall High School in Richmond were "snapped" as they received their diplomas from Dr. Fred B. Dixon.

principal of the school. Dr. Dixon and other school officials have been enthusiastic in their comments on the service.

Students who attended Mary Washington College in the early '30's will remember photographer Clarke for his newsreel work with Pathe News. As a result of his work, reels on snowball battles, push ball contests and a running marathon through the streets of Fredericksburg featured the feminine charms of the students at the college and these reels were shown in theaters all over the country.

Clarke, who now has his own studio in Richmond, specializes in child photography and operates Hospital Baby Picture Service in addition to his activities of photographing graduating classes in Virginia colleges and high schools.

Voice (excitedly): "Doctor, come at once—the baby has swallowed my fountain pen!"

Doctor: "I'll be right over—what are you doing in the meantime?"

Voice: "Using my pencil."

Seniors Find Graduation 'Difficult To Explain'

Spring is a busy season on the campus of Mary Washington College. All of a sudden the campus is green, Easter vacation is a thing of the past, the tennis court is crowded with sun-bathers, May Day is past—the thought suddenly hits us that in less than one week we will be taking exams (Ugh!) and then HOME (Ahl!).

What are the seniors thinking now that the "end is so near?" Do they feel nostalgia, regret, satisfaction, happiness, or pure relief? Why don't we ask some of them?

"Difficult to Explain," says White Anne White was rather confused about how she felt. It seems that this matter of leaving M. W. C. brings on a complex reaction that is most difficult to describe. She is sad, and yet she is glad; she regrets and yet she is happy. To be a little more explicit—after one has spent four years at Mary Washington, it is almost impossible to think that "after May 30, it will all be over."

Future Offers Challenge
"It will probably sound trite," says Anne. "We keep telling ourselves that we will keep close contact with the school and all our friends here, but we won't. Yet I feel that it is time to leave M. W. C. and do something new. The future offers a big challenge."

Anne says that if she were a freshman again she would probably narrow her fields of interest. "But, in the long run it would probably be about the same, except that I'd like to learn a little more," she adds.

Anne doesn't have any definite plans for next year. She says that she will probably teach in Virginia in order to gain experience for personnel work, which she hopes to do later.

"We all feel sentimental," says Watson.
"We all looked forward to being seniors," says Barbara Watson, "but it certainly is a different story now. Like a bunch of sentimentalists we are all counting off the hours that we will be together." Barbara says emphatically that if she were a freshman again she would do the same things over again.

Bobby has marvelous plans for the summer; such as loafing on the beach at Newport, R. I., taking care of her new baby brother, and helping the family move. When questioned beyond that, she is vague. "My interests are so numerous and so diversified (Russian and dancing) that I can't decide anything," she states. She adds (in true "Gone with the Wind" style), "I'm just too busy to think about the big things now. I'll try to make a decision later." Bobby has been considering the Georgetown Foreign Service School.

One Step Nearer the Altar for Kitten

Graduation means that Irvin (Kitten) Whitlow is one step nearer marriage, so who can expect her to be despondent about it? Kitten plans to teach the fourth grade in a public school in Richmond next year. She is engaged to a Randolph-Macon boy and they will be married after his graduation next June.

Connie Conley just doesn't know what her life is going to be like without M. W. C. and all her friends here. Things are in such a rush now that she wishes it were all over. If she were a freshman again, Connie says that she might change her college career in quite a few ways.

The Theatre is Connie's First Choice

At present, Connie is "thrilled, scared, and anxious" about her summer job with the Plymouth Drama Festival in Plymouth, Mass. Beyond this summer, her future plans are still uncertain.

Profs. Paradise Last Thursday

Once again Faculty Day has rolled around. Last Thursday marked the day when the profs had their paradise, the teachers their treat, the instructors their entertainment. From the 8:30's 'til late afternoon, the classes all paid homage to their profs by bringing little gifts ranging from Chesterfields to the Kitchen Sink. If the above-mentioned culprit happens to be an extra-special "good egg," the class adjourns to the "C" Shoppe where we witness a turmoil second only to Grand Central.

The juke box blares louder than usual, the counters are overloaded with eager beavers trying to buy their prof a double Moron's Delight, or a chocolate malted. Great masses of students flock around these Men of Wisdom, firing questions at them, and making the rafters of Chandler ring with the strains of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and indeed he is if he can stand up under the strain he must go through. Someone managed to drag one of the more athletic faculty members out onto the dance floor, and he surprised them by cutting a wicked rug, or making like a South-American in such a way to put us all to shame.

The usual snake dances and conga lines formed, a conglomeration of perspiring profs and sweating pupils, and wound up the steps, and wrapped around Chandler several times.

At noon, the Faculty had a chance to display their talents in skits, song-and-dance routines, and anything else to show the kids that they were really a swell bunch of people after all, and the day ended with us realizing that to the fullest degree!

She has been investigating the field of radio, which sounds encouraging, but she states that the theater will always be her first choice.

Wet Crowd Views May Day Success

By FRANCES GLASS

For the seventh consecutive year the annual May Day Festival was held, due to bad weather, in George Washington Auditorium. The anxious, expectant, and even wet crowd filled the auditorium to the aisles of the balcony. There's something almost ironic in the fact that it rained only before and after the festival.

In spite of the weather, the program was a huge success. Rain and heat were forgotten when the orchestra began the processional and the first pretty maid appeared.

Colorful Combinations

The 24 maids wore pastel gowns; six of lavender, green, pink, and blue respectively. The gowns, which came from Garfinkle's in Washington, were fashioned with full skirts and "boat necklines." Large picture hats of the same color added to the effect. Each maid carried a mixed bouquet of snapdragons and wore a single string of pearls. The train bearers wore yellow and the flower girls, aqua.

Rosalyn Skellet, Maid of Honor, wore a pale blue heavy Brocade gown with a full skirt and long sleeves. She carried deep pink roses.

Jean Abendschein wore a white satin dress with a long train and long pointed sleeves. The neckline was trimmed with beaded pearls. The dress came from Woodward and Lohrop in Washington. She carried a sceptre covered with garlands.

Dancers Entertain Queen

After the coronation of the Queen the court was entertained by dancers. The dance groups presented a program entitled "A Dancing School Recital." Special tribute should go to the dancers and to Mrs. T. W. Childress, who designed and made the costumes, which were especially effective.

Very often patience will accomplish what a strong will cannot.

Movies Entertain In Various Ways

By JO MARSHER

It all started early last semester when the movie, "The Big City," starring Margaret O'Brien, was shown in George Washington Auditorium. Since then, many a Saturday night we have spent seeing movies which we had always wanted to see or which we had seen before but enjoyed seeing again. "How Green Was My Valley," "The Razor's Edge," "Song of Bernadette," and "Laura" are some of the excellent films we have had this year. Foreign films were also represented by the Spanish film, "Dona Barbara."

Pep ???? The Movies

If anyone wants to see class spirit in action or hear a preview of Devil-Goat Day, the half hour just before the movie begins provides ample opportunity. Every "Goat" and "Devil" joins in the rivalry to make it known that they are well represented in the audience. The period before the movie also often includes several hands of bridge or a workout with the knitting needles.

Thank Yous

The student body owes a debt of gratitude to Mrs. Bushnell, Dean of Women, and to Dr. Martin who made the showing of these films possible. Mrs. Bushnell obtained the films and Dr. Martin ran the movie projector. Even on the night of the Junior Ring Dance, Dr. Martin was there in his tuxedo running the machine so that the students might see "13 Rue Madeleine."

Two can live as cheaply as one—provided they are willing to live that cheaply.

An Englishman was talking to a Scotchman. "You know," he said, "in Scotland you men eat oatmeal, but in England we feed it to our horses." The Scotchman replied, "And that's the very reason why English horses and Scotch men are the very finest in the world!"

Short Story Class Holds Banquet

On Tuesday evening, May 10, the Short Story class of Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia held a banquet in the College Shoppe. The class, twenty-two in number, is under the instruction of Dr. George E. Shankle.

The students of this English course are trying to further the interest of writing short stories and to develop the potentialities of their own writing abilities. Each member of the class voluntarily wrote a short story and a committee selected two to be read at the banquet. These stories heard were: "Death Personified" by Shirley Barker of Richmond, Virginia and "The Last Fall" by Ardith Jeffries of Washington, D. C.

This type of banquet for the Short Story class is an innovation in college and Dr. Shankle intends it to be a tradition that will be carried out in future years.

When the weather permits, Miss Margie Gibson, tennis chairman, would like the participants of the tennis tournaments to play off their matches as soon as possible.

With the hot weather our dreams of the beach and summer vacation are not far off. A cute T-Shirt is a wonderful way to start your summer wardrobe. HICKS' has a darling assortment of short sleeved cotton ones with the crew neckline. All for $1.98 they are striped, also some two tones. Another variety features the turtleneck with either the long or the short sleeves. In all colors, they are $1.98. Need a cotton dress for the last few days of school? HICKS' has an exceptional supply of cute cottons, linens, shantings, and sharkskins in sizes 9 to 15 and 12 to 20. Of course they are all only $5.98. Stop by and see for yourself.

Lynn Perkins has some darling dresses. One that I particularly liked was a permanent finished organly dress with cap sleeves. It's so cool looking yet has that dressed-up effect. Know that you'll love it for that special date. In the softest pastels that you've ever seen, it's only $17.95. Of course there are other dresses to suit all summer engagements. Make that trip down town soon...

PERSONALS

Girls from M. W. C. who attended the inter-frat dances at W. & L. on the weekend of the seventh include Iris Macheras, Jo Hamilton, Edith Jacobson, and Houston Alexander.

The University of Richmond Glee Club enlivened the spirits of M. W. C. considerably. It looked good to see "Date Row" in front of Virginia filled up, and the serenading outside of Virginia from 10 o'clock on had the whole dorm hanging out of the windows.

Nancy Kunhart spent a long weekend at Yale helping the "Ellis" celebrate the Derby Day festivities.

Candy Crittendon and Anne White have been chosen as Date(s) of the Month at Annapolis. Watch the Log for further reports.

The comings and goings of the boys on the Ring Dance weekend had the Juniors floating in second heaven. Patti Head's date left early to return to Cornell University, where he was elected to the presidency of the inter-fraternity council on Sunday night.

Bobbie Davis, Brook Woods, and Alice Sampson visited at Al's home in Gordonsville on the weekend of the seventh. They said that they "traveled in a most novel way."

If you saw Nancy Leonard dressed up "fit to kill" on Friday. It was only because she was waiting for Randy to drive up the hill and take her home to Chincoteague.

Hilda Jones left the campus on May Day weekend. Bill at Randolph-Macon gave her the inspiration.

Mary Zink returned finally with a smile and a longing for things in General.

Helen Macheras and Shirley O'Brian took a late ride to Shirley's home in Durham, N. C., on Saturday the seventh.

Harriet Fletcher is ending the year in extra high spirits. Her big weekend at Hampden-Sydney with

Councils Pass New Amendment

Student Council and Joint Council have passed the proposed amendment to the Constitution providing that the elections of class vice-presidents be held after the elections of class presidents and class representatives. Copies of the proposed amendment are now posted at Monroe and Chandler. After being posted a week, the proposed amendment will be voted on by the student body. If it is approved by the student body, it will become a part of the Constitution.

Woody might be the cause. Bravo! to the girls who have the brains and courage to take off the last weekend before exams. B. J. Snidow and Rene Abbey we hope that you have fun in Richmond and Charlottesville.

When the V. M. I. boys arrived last weekend Beas Franklin was overjoyed to see Corky Land. The latest attachments include the following: Ann Galloway's, Diana Wellborn's and Liz Barnes' pins; Barbara Desper's, Carol Bailey's and Marilyn Ruskin's diamonds; and Helen Strickler's and Nydia Cintron's husbands.

Bobbie Watson must be mentioned separately. On May Day she accepted a Navy Crest from Jeff. It is predicted that the engagement will be announced in June Week.

The Right Reverend John Miller Taylor, Jr., visited "Fungus" Cuthrell last weekend to make further arrangements on a lasting proposition.

Among the girls who are planning to spend June Week at Annapolis are Anne Wright, Sherry McEwen, Pat Lancaster and Dot Booker.

Ellen Brown, Helen Bounds and Mary Lou Vollmer are making plans for June Week at West Point.

Florence Archibald gave her senior song recital Monday, May 16, in Monroe auditorium. Betty Bond Heller was her accompanist.

Training Week Helps 'Y' Members Understand Duty

The week of April 25-29 was set aside as Leadership Training Week for Y. W. C. A. Cabinet. These meetings help new cabinet members to get a better understanding of their duties. Many helpful suggestions were given which will help cabinet carry on the good work that "Y" has done.

Dr. Caverlee was the first speaker of the week. Faith and Prayer are essential in carrying out any job and are a vital part in helping members of "Y" Cabinet do her job to the best of her ability, he said.

On Tuesday, Dr. Whidden spoke to the group. He reviewed the work that "Y" has done and gave suggestions as to some new ideas it might work on now. He emphasized the fact that "Y" is very important for the religious services it gives.

Mary Cottotham, "Y" President, on Wednesday reviewed what the previous speakers had said. There was a discussion of plans for next year.

Dr. E. K. Dodd spoke to the Cabinet on Thursday. She spoke of the work "Y" does and how it helps on campus. She made the members realize the responsibility of their jobs.

At the last meeting for Leadership Training Week, Mrs. L. C. Carter spoke to Cabinet. She told of her experiences in "Y" when she was at college. She too gave the group some suggestions that might help "Y" work on campus.

These talks were invaluable to "Y" Cabinet members. They helped the group to become more familiar with "Y" work and set high goals for the new cabinet to work for. The "Y" sincerely thanks the speakers for their guidance and help. They hope to set forth the suggestions into working ideas and thus carry on the work of the Y. W. C. A.

Leidecker Dog Claims Great War Record

By GARLAND ESTES

At the suggestion of Mrs. Bushnell, the story of a great dog has been made public to you M. W. C. girls. Mrs. Leidecker, wife of our own philosophy professor, is the owner of this noble animal named "Petey." The story of "Petey" is an interesting and exciting one.

"Petey" is a small, brown Manchester foxhound who was taken into the K-9 corps by Mrs. Leidecker's sister in the early days of the last war. This dog was trained in Morristown, New Jersey, to be a medical corps dog and to follow into battle nurses and doctors with medicines and other equipment strapped to her body. Often she would have to make her way alone and deliver her life giving medicines. It was necessary that such a dog be small, good natured, and trustworthy and "Petey" was all of these things.

She belonged to the Air Corps and wears proudly on her collar, the golden wings presented to her by the men of her company. "Petey" was in the Normandy invasion, at Salerno, and at many other hotly contested points during the war where she served the flight nurses faithfully. The colonel who carried her with him became so attached to the dog that Mrs. Leidecker tells us "it almost took an act of Congress to get her back." Of course, there are places "Petey" has been and things she has done that will never be recorded on her war record but her bravery is well known whether written or not written.

Post War Record

"Petey" has reached her eleventh birthday and is in the best of health. No wonder this, as she eats better than most of us! She doesn't eat just Kennel Ration and dog biscuit and the inevitable bone, but strained baby foods such as carrots (and she does not object to carrots either). Her pet likes are life savers, brazil nuts, ice cream and foamy beer ("this liking for beer was acquired during her war days," Mrs. Leidecker hurries to explain). And manners! why this dog has them... she can sit at a bridge table and sip her coffee without spilling a drop! This would floor some of Emily Post's fearful practitioners, doubtless.

Because of her war training "Petey" does not make friends with other dogs easily, as she was taught to make her way alone and not stop for any reason. She is similar to the seeing-eye dogs in this respect.

When Mrs. Leidecker tells "Petey" to "sit", she sits, to "lie", she lies; she shows remarkable understanding of words. For instance, there is one command she does not like, that is any command that mentions the words "New York" (watch out, New Yorkers). At these words, she begins to bark ferociously, jumps wildly and has a so-called "fit." Somewhere in her mind, she has stored a bad memory of the big city!

Helper to Canines

"Petey" has done much for the betterment of her own canine brothers and sisters. It was because of her that Mrs. Leidecker became interested in animal psychology and began to take a prominent part in animal humane societies in London, Switzerland, and our own United States.

"What number are they on now?" "Do you think there's a chance for a suite in Betty Lewis? We've only got number 97, looks like we'll be back in the basement of Willard." "Don't worry! I still bid two hearts."

Four girls were sitting around an improvised bridge table in a room neighboring Chandler 12. The future looked dark as they waited to sign up for their room. It seemed that everyone was ahead of them, and the time was flying by.

"No one would know I have a Biology test tomorrow. Don't know when I'll study. We're going to be here all night!"

Outside the room, girls were playing all kinds of cards on the floor, chasing down to the "C" Shoppe, and singing songs from their favorite schools. Occasionally there was loud flurry of voices as someone got the very room they wanted.

The Fatigued End

Gradually they reached the number of the four girls, and excitedly they got in line. They never thought they'd be so glad to give their numbers to a girl and receive a card in exchange. At last they looked over the plan for Virginia, and amazingly enough, there was a room vacant, left just for them, on the first floor. Joyously they trudged back to Willard, presumably to do some homework, but knowing full well they'd crawl into bed.

'49-'50 Cavalry Officers Elected

The officers for the 1949-1950 Mary Washington Cavalry are as follows: captain, Winifred Horton, Rosewell, New Mexico; first lieutenant, Joan Katz, Freeport, Long Island, N. Y.; second lieutenant, Marjorie Burton, Richmond, Virginia.

The Mary Washington Cavalry was established in 1942 at the request of President Combs that each organization of M. W. C. set up a program to aid with the war effort. The Hoof Prints Club sent in to President Combs its plan to establish the M. W. C. Cavalry. The plan was approved and set into action immediately. Marjorie Hudson, the secretary to President Combs last year, was the first captain.

The Cavalry's first call to duty was in the fall of 1942 when they were called on to help police the city of Fredericksburg during the flood. Since then they have tried to be of use to the city and to the college in every way that they can. They collected paper during the war, they serve on the parking, jump, and gate committees of the horse shows sponsored by the Hoof Prints club twice a year. This year for the first time they have been sponsoring their own "Gymkhana" show. This year for the first time in several years the Cavalry re-

The Concert Dance Club recently held its election of officers for the coming year. Nancy Trice is the newly elected president, and the other officers are: vice-president, Florence Overly; secretary, Gretchen Anderson; treasurer, Christine Doumas; wardrobe mistress, Betsy Martin.

The club also elected new members on the basis of their work in the Junior Dance Club, which is sponsored by the Concert Club, and their participation in the dances presented May Day. They are: Sue Bargamin, Betty Jean Booth, Suzanne Branner, Carol Edgerton, Joan Havard, Mickey Litt, Patsy Milam, Martha Spry, Dorothy Stultz, and Beverly Youngs.

Because of rain the May Day this year had to be held indoors, and if it had not been for the rapid move of the Cavalry in helping to move the equipment necessary for the show and holding back crowds the performance would not have started promptly at 4 p. m.

Spring Horse Show; Best Yet!

The weatherman was kind this year, so the girls of Mary Washington College had sunny skies for their annual Spring Horse Show held at Oak Hill Stables, May 8. The efficiently and smoothly run show was the best yet sponsored by the Hoof Prints Club of the college. A large crowd of townspeople, students, and their relatives flocked to the new show ring to see this big equitation show which is held annually at the end of the school year. The well-filled classes consisted of equitation and equitation over fences for beginning, intermediate and advanced riders, Knock-down and out, Hack, Achievement class, Milne Special and championships for the best rider in each division. The blue ribbon in the Achievement class was one of the most fought for honors in the show, as it was awarded to the student who had made the most progress as horsewoman during the session, and had not had any riding experience previous to this session. Twelve determined young ladies did some beautiful riding in this class, but the blue ribbon was snared by Eran Jobe of Jackson, Tenn.

In previous years, the Knock-down and out was the most exciting class of the show with its thrills and spills as the fences grow higher and higher and the competition gets tougher and tougher, but this year the Milne Special took the spotlight. The Special is judged on correct use of the aids by the rider as she takes her mount over a particularly difficult and tricky course of jumps. The course and class were dreamed up by Dr. David Milne and really tested the ability of the riders as they twisted and turned over the fences. This class was made even more difficult because none of the contestants knew what the course or fences were like until just before they rode into the ring. Several beautiful rounds were made, but the smooth and skillfully made ride of Jane Dreifus of Alexandria, Va., was a pleasure to watch. Janie really was on her toes as she rode Janie to win the blue.

The most important class of the show, the Mary Washington College Trophy Class, was held as darkness fell. The blue and red ribbon winners in the advanced equitation classes competed in this class which was judged on seat, hands, and general horsemanship. This was a difficult class, but was capably won by one of Fredericksburg's finest riders, Betty-Lou Shelhorse. Betty-Lou rode Janie so easily and beautifully that the judges had little trouble in pinning her on top, with the reserve going to Carol Bailey of Herndon, Va. Judges for the show were Mrs. Fontaine Watson of Gordonsville, Miss Katherine Martin of Tappahannock, and Jack Payne of Gordonsville.

Fenlon Speaks For A. R. A. Banquet

Tuesday night, May 3d, at the Fredericksburg Country Club, the A. R. A. held its annual banquet. The speaker for the evening was Mr. Fenlon, head of the Physical Education Department at James Monroe High School, who gave an enlightening speech on "Recreation." One of the points he stressed was the fact that too many of us in this fast moving age do not know how to relax and enjoy recreations.

Miss Nan Taylor, the new A. R. A. President, made the public announcement of the awarding of the joint hockey camp scholarship to Jean Brown and Barbara (Bobbie) Davis and the dance scholarship to Betsy Martin.

M. W. C. Victors At Lexington

The Mary Washington College Horse Show Team rolled out of bed early on May 7, loaded their horses and took off for the Second Annual Intercollegiate Horse Show sponsored by Washington and Lee University, at Lexington, Virginia. The team was made up of Carol Bailey, Te Te Brauer, Jane Lee Dreifus, Betsy Fletcher, Georgene Lee, Joan Katz, and Betty Lou Shelhorse. These jocks split the riding on Don Juan, Jamie, Replete (Jane Dreifus's horse), and Pedee (a loan from the stables of Jack Payne of Gordonsville, Virginia). For two years in a row the M. W. C. team trooped into Lexington bent on victory, and returned with all the honors worth having, and this year it was no different. Undaunted by a cloudburst, six inches of goosy red mud, and terrific heat, the team did it again, and returned with a load of ribbons and trophies, including the team championship awarded the team which accumulated the greatest number of points during the day. This was no hollow victory either because the M. W. C. team had to beat teams from V.M.I., W.&L., Southern Seminary, and Chatham Hall.

The biggest victory of the day was the winning of the reserve championship in the equitation division by Betty-Lou on Jamie. This pair was right on top all day as they skimmed over the slippery mud to win blues in the Open Hunter and Hunter Hack classes. However, the team's winning streak had been well established by then, after Betsy Fletcher rode Don Juan in the first two classes and took the blue in both.

Everyone who attended the show had a wonderful time and certainly enjoyed the wonderful hospitality shown them by the Washington & Lee boys. The team is look-

"Foolish Notion" Stars Randall

"Foolish Notion", the last college theatre production of the year, was presented on May 20 and 21 in George Washington Auditorium. Martha Jean Randall starred in the part of Sophie Wing, which was first played and made famous by Tallulah Bankhead.

"Foolish Notion" is Modern Comedy

The play, which was written by Phillip Barry, is a very modern sophisticated comedy. The plot is the old "lost husband returns" deal with a new twist. The second act and the beginning of the third consist of dreams which were effectively done with good lighting. Psychology students probably found quite a lot of food for thought beneath the sarcastic, risqué chatter.

Last Stage Appearance of Seniors

We all felt nostalgic when we realized that this is the last college play in which we will see the seniors. Some of the senior actresses who made their last stage appearances were Martha Jean Randall, Connie Conley, Barbara Halslip, and Joan Timberlake. It won't be easy to forget the convincing way in which Connie played the difficult part of 12-year-old Happy Hapgood.
